If you already have a program with its activation key, you do not need to use X-Force keygen. The program will perform a check if you have the right key to activate your product, and if you do not it will perform a check on the internet to see if you can find a download for free. The online checks can take a long time if you need to activate a program with a very broad activation key, like Autodesk AutoCAD. The online activation tool on X-Force will only check the product and not the platform or the version of the product.
