===== ZitchDog This is the case for both iPad and Android. It's a bit of a head-scratcher for some people, but if you read between the lines it's obvious. I imagine some will try and find reasons to reject these products, but that's why you read between the lines. ~~~ fourmii Except the web was different before the iPhone. When the iPhone first came out there was the promise of "there's more content out there than all the great books, all the great movies, and all the great music combined." Then came the web-browser, and it turned out everything needed to be done with a web- browser. Not a personal device that you basically carry around. That's a completely new concept ba244e880a
