Hyper Plan is a great tool for all social and home-based activities, including parties, weddings, birthdays, anniversaries, games, reunions and celebrations. Features: - Simple and intuitive design - Build a project with multiple steps - Customizable templates - Print your project using high quality templates - Easy to modifyThe state of the art is documented by numerous descriptions of a number of technologies which seek to allow a common set of platforms to support multiple telecommunications protocols. For example, U.S. Pat. No. 5,410,728, U.S. Pat. No. 5,487,440, U.S. Pat. No. 5,210,856, U.S. Pat. No. 5,485,385, U.S. Pat. No. 5,196,876, U.S. Pat. No. 4,962,068, U.S. Pat. No. 4,870,685, U.S. Pat. No. 5,020,090 and U.S. Pat. No. 5,247,306 all describe systems which receive various signals and deliver them in compatible formats. A number of systems have been proposed for enabling a telecommunications system subscriber to select a service from multiple services, and perform other such functions. For example, U.S. Pat. No. 4,839,851, U.S. Pat. No. 5,196,876, U.S. Pat. No. 4,962,068, U.S. Pat. No. 4,907,267, U.S. Pat. No. 5,247,306 and U.S. Pat. No. 5,410,728 describe a system which evaluates a service select signal and determines the nature of a subsequent signal sequence. In particular, U.S. Pat. No. 5,247,306 describes a system which may receive various signals from various protocols, and route them according to a set of predetermined rules. In particular, an encoded service select signal, which may be a voice or other telecommunications signal, is received, checked to determine whether it represents a system which has the capability of implementing the particular service for which the subscriber has requested the system to act, and then decoded to identify the kind of service, if any, which is requested. If such a service is available, then it is applied to the service, so that the
