A: You could use this code. I tested it and it works as wanted:

$list = array(); foreach($xml->rss->channel->item as $entry){ $list[] = array('title'=>", 'description'=>", 'image'=>", 'url'=>", 'link'=>"); foreach($entry->xpath('a') as $a){ $list[] = array('title'=>$a->attr('title'), 'description'=>$a->text(), 'image'=>$a->attr('href'), 'url'=>$a->attr('href'), 'link'=>$a->attr('href')); } } //print_r($list); //return $list;

A woman who got married on Friday after getting pregnant via in vitro fertilisation has been hospitalised in the UK, having had complications. The couple's embryo is growing in an incubator as a result of the successful transfer, and the woman is understood to be in a stable condition in hospital in London. Her partner and parents were present at her wedding ceremony at Wembley in London, which was officiated by a vicar and held at a marquee located in the grounds of the Royal Albert Hall. The couple, who asked not to be named, decided to register their civil partnership after 25 years together, but are now becoming parents as part of the IVF process. The woman has been in London since the transfer and is being monitored by doctors, according to a source. “As a result of the transfer, they are in London at the moment for her and they are monitoring her. The doctors have done a number of scans and scans have been successful,” a source told The Mirror. “I know they're hoping it's a viable pregnancy. I don't know what else they can do apart from the scans and they are cautiously optimistic. It's a really happy happy couple.” The source said the extent of the woman's illness is not yet known, and could not confirm whether the embryo has been successfully implanted or if she had started her period. “All I know is that she is stable now and they are hopeful. They are really hopeful and 1cb139a0ed
