The Eraser tool is used to remove unwanted features from an image. Use the clone tool to create a hard copy of an image. The clone brush is very useful for creating a duplicate image. Q: How can I call a function whenever I click on a button in my app? I'm new at android development, and I want to call a function when I click on a button, but I don't know how to do that. I tried like this, but it didn't work. `public void showHomeClick(View view) { Intent goHome = new Intent(getApplicationContext(), Home.class); startActivity(goHome); }` A: you have to create an action on your button and then create an action which you want to be called when your button is clicked `public static void onSearchClick(View v) { // Your code }` Then you can call this action from anywhere in your app with `searchButton.performClick();` Take a look on android docs

Arginine-rich proteins: a brief, confidential history with reference to the study of host-parasite interaction in vivo. The multiplicity of arginine-rich protein substances from diverse sources, including human, animal and plant tissues, and biological fluids have been reviewed. It has been concluded that these proteins, principally arginine-proteoglycans, are best regarded as negative modulators of host immune responsiveness at sites where they influence cell-cell, cell-tissue and tissue-tissue interactions. Emphasis has been placed upon their role in the natural host-parasite interaction at the mucosal barrier and upon the possibility that their selective concentration at the sites of microbial infection might be exploited to develop safe and effective immunomodulatory drugs.

Inspired by the work of Robin Connolly, British Artist and illustrator, here is the story of a girl with some rather unusual obsessions. The Girl with the Goat One day, a curious little girl who lived in a town far from the centre of things began to hear the wailing of the wind and the howling of the dogs through the crevices of her house. She went outside and saw the world before her, only to find that the portal to the other world had a lock. She tried to open the door many times, but she failed to break it down. Before long, she began to cry and mourn for the loss of the world that she longed for. One night, when she had been crying for hours, a strange shape appeared before her. The shape was tall and strong. Her mind was trapped in her head and her mouth, her heart was imprisoned in her chest, and she could do nothing. The stranger told the girl that her sadness and sorrow was great. The stranger had seen her on her own, alone and waiting for the world that had been taken from her, and that she must take the path of sadness and sorrow. For the time being, the stranger said that she would take her on her journey, and she would come back later to see what had happened with the world. The girl was so grateful to the stranger that she started walking with the goat that was leading the way. The goat was a woman in the shape of a goat, who would never stop walking. The girl was terrified, but also frightened. She wondered, "How will I survive? What will I do? Where will I sleep? What food will I eat?" As they walked, a flock of birds flew over their heads. They had come from the forest, where they would not be harmed. They called out to the girl and the stranger, and these were the only words that she heard: "One more heart, one more child." That moment would change the girl's life forever. She would have two hearts and many children.

The Girl with the Goat by Connolly I built this latest version of a simple and useful app for my Razr. I thought this would be the perfect opportunity to show off a little bit the new Droid Ultra I'm using for development. I'm still a few days away
