Release Day (Cute Softies) So, I'm really excited about this release! Check out the previews, but here's the skinny: I have made four softies in the recent past. A brad of butterflies, a brad of paw print cupcakes and a kawaii set of footprints. I've also made two sets of collars for a child who is starting to learn the whole word of collar (although one set ended up being a bit too big for his neck).
So that's four sets. And, I've just learned, that in order to get royalties on Etsy, you're required to register that Etsy shop. So, I've done that. So, before the end of this month, I'll have at least one more set of puppies to show you. Here's the Pretty Prudy Set of Softies (I didn't add the bow, because I couldn't get it to look right): Here's the Pretty Prudy Set of Collars: And, just a side note, I'm more than a bit excited about the new time period for my household. Just a few days ago, my son and I moved my youngest son's bed over to the third floor. My oldest son just celebrated his 10th birthday. My other two sons, however, are recently turning 8 and 5. The oldest son is getting a little anxious to get old enough to sleep in his own room. And he's just moved into a big boy bed. The third floor is the large family room. Well, the boys now have their own rooms. This makes my second oldest son really excited. While the room is a lot bigger, and the boy has more space, the boy is still sharing his room with his two older brothers.

This makes the second oldest happy. And it's just a matter of time before the first is old enough to have his own room. Now, if that weren't enough, my oldest is showing some interest in the romance I mentioned the other day. And, so, it's time to move him in the direction of a teen who's coming home from college and living with us. This will end up being a cool process, but for now, I'm enjoying some romance in the house. Oh, and just a couple of weeks ago
