Q: How to change google maps geocoding provider from geocoder.cl? I am using Google Maps API to geocode coordinates for some addresses in my web application. I know that there are other geocoding providers, like we also have the Geocoder of Yahoo and Bing. How do I make Google Maps API to use my server and not the geocoder.cl with their new PHP API? A: Disclaimer This answer will ONLY work for the Google Maps API v3. Problem Description In order to use the Google Maps Geocoding API you need an API key. Google provides those keys in an XML file. In the offline documentation for the Geocoding service you are provided with the following code snippet 'Boston', 'region' => 'MA', 'location' => array('lat' => 42.387, 'lng' => -71.437)); // Make the Geocoding request using the Google Geocoding API $url = ".urlencode($query['address']). '&language=' . $language. '&key=' . $api_key; // Get the Geocoding results $xml = file_get_contents($url); // Print the results $xml = simplexml_load_string($xml); $data = $xml->result->geometry->location; echo json_encode($data); ?> This PHP code is wrapped in an HTML page, which in turn loads the page in an iframe like this If you visit that page and hit the "Submit" button (via the submit button in the iframe) it returns a JSON response like this {"type": "Feature
